Introduction

AUTHORITY AND SCOPE—The Economic Censuses are required by law under 13 U.S.C., sections 131, 191, and 224. The 1967 Census of Business portion of the Economic Censuses consists of firms engaged in retail trade, wholesale trade, and selected services (hotels and motels; personal, business, and repair services; and amusement and recreation services including the motion picture industry) which operated in the United States. In addition, the Census of Business covered public warehouses, dental laboratories, law firms, architectural and engineering firms, travel agencies and truck and bus carriers not subject to economic regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Data for the contract construction industry also were collected in this Census but published in a separate series of reports. The Census of Business also covered Guam and the Virgin Islands. A separate 1967 Census of Business, Manufacturers, and Construction for Puerto Rico was conducted jointly with the Commonwealth Government.

KINDS OF BUSINESS COVERED—Retail trade as defined in the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual¹ includes all establishments primarily engaged in selling merchandise to personal, household, and farm users. In this report, liquor stores operated by State and local governments have also been included in Retail Trade statistics. The basic retail trade tabulations do not include data for post exchanges, ship stores, and similar establishments operated on military posts by agencies of the Federal Government. A separate presentation of the data for such establishments appears in table 17 of chapter 1. Neither do the basic tabulations include data for administrative offices, captive warehouses, and other units which service or are auxiliary to retail establishments within the same organization. See the Kind-of-Business Classifications section of appendix A for definitions of the kind-of-business categories for which data are shown in this report.

CENSUS DISCLOSURE RULES—In accordance with Federal law governing census reports, any data which would disclose the operations of an individual establishment or business organization are not published. However, the number of establishments in a kind of business is not considered a disclosure, so that this item may appear in instances where other items of information for the same kind of business or locality are withheld.

CORRECTIONS TO DATA—The chapters of this volume comprise the statistical portions of previously published reports (series BC67-RA and BC67-RS). Corrections made after these publications were issued have not been carried to this volume unless they significantly affect the data. As a result, the detail in some tables may not add to totals.

Summary of Findings

GENERAL SUMMARY

Sales—Sales of retail establishments totaled $310.2 billion in 1967, an increase of 27.0 percent over the 1963 census figures. This increase compares with increases of 35.9 percent for the Gross National Product and 35.6 percent for personal income. As a percent of personal income, retail sales has continued to decline. In 1948, retail sales amounted to 61.2 percent of personal income; by 1967 retail sales had declined to 49.3 percent of personal income.

Table A presents data on retail sales and other selected economic indicators for the major census years. Figure 1 illustrates the relative growth since 1929 in personal income and in retail sales.

Employment and Payroll—Retail establishments had 9,381,000 paid employees during the workweek including March 12, 1967. The 1967 retail employment as a percentage of nonagricultural employment (as reported by BLS) was 13.3 percent; the same percentage as in 1963. The kinds of business with the greatest numbers of employees were "Eating places" with two million employees, "Grocery stores" with 1.2 million, and "Department stores" with 1.1 million paid employees. In 1967 these three kinds of business accounted for 44.3 percent of all retail employment compared to 41.7 percent in 1963.

The largest increases in employment of all kinds of business were realized by "Department stores" and "Eating places," which increased employment by 20.9 percent and 16.6 percent respectively. "Hardware stores," "Variety stores," and "Fuel and ice dealers" were the only kinds of business to show decreases in employment; all other kinds of business showed increases in employment.

The annual payroll for retail employees reached $36.1 billion in 1967, an increase of 30.9 percent from the 1963 level. Department stores had the largest percentage increase in payroll with 58.2 percent while "Hardware stores" had the smallest increase, 10.4 percent.

Table B presents data on total number of employees for the workweek including March 12, 1967 and Nov. 15, 1963, and payroll for the entire year for 1967 and 1963 for each major kind of business group and for the more important kinds of business.

GEOGRAPHIC DISTRIBUTION OF RETAIL SALES

Retail sales by State ranged from a high $33 billion for California, to Alaska's $402 million. The largest percentage increase in retail sales since 1963 for any State was the 44-percent increase for Hawaii. Wyoming had the smallest increase, with 6.8 percent.

Among the different geographic divisions, the South Atlantic Division showed the greatest percent increase over the previous census, 32 percent, while the Mountain Division showed the smallest increase, 20 percent. Since 1958 the South Atlantic Division, along with the East South Central and Pacific Divisions, all increased their portion of total retail sales, whereas all other divisions have shown relative decreases. The greatest relative decrease, was registered by the Middle Atlantic Division where retail sales declined from 20.2 percent of the U.S. total in 1958 to 18.6 percent in 1967. In contrast, the South Atlantic Division, which showed the greatest increase, increased its percent of total retail sales from 12.7 percent in 1963 to 13.7 percent in 1967.

Table E shows the percentage changes in retail sales for States and divisions from 1958 and 1963 to 1967. This table also gives the percent of total retail sales for the States and divisions for these three census years.

The map in Figure 3 shows the percentage changes in retail sales for the various States for the period 1958 to 1967. Nevada had the greatest percentage increase with 119 percent, while Wyoming increased retail sales by only 25 percent during this period.

Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas—Of the 25 largest SMSA's, all had increases in retail sales since 1963. The largest percentage increases in sales were realized by the Houston, Tex., SMSA with 53.5 percent and the Anaheim-Santa Ana-Garden Grove, Calif., SMSA with 51.5 percent. The Newark, N.J., SMSA showed the smallest increase, with 17.6 percent. The New York, N.Y., SMSA remained the largest with $18.6 billion in sales.

¹Anaheim-Santa Ana-Garden Grove, California not classified as an SMSA in 1958.

The cities' share of the SMSA's total retail sales declined in every one of the leading 25 SMSA's. While all but one of the 25 central cities showed increases in retail sales, the increase in each case was less than that shown for the SMSA of which it was a part.

Table F lists the 25 leading SMSA's, the central cities, and the percent changes in sales from 1963 to 1967, as well as the percent of SMSA sales accounted for by the central city.

Major Retail Centers—The shift of retail sales away from the central business district and away from the rural areas towards the suburbs is illustrated in data separately published in the major retail centers (MRC) reports (series BC67—MRC). These reports contain data for the 230 standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA) in the United States, and include statistics for 134 central business districts (CBD) and 1,556 other major retail centers. Table H presents data for all SMSA's covered in the 1967 program and also presents comparative data for SMSA's covered in both the 1963 and 1967 programs (those containing a defined CBD).

While retail sales in the United States (excluding sales of nonstore retailers) had an increase of 27.1 percent accompanied by an increase of 2.5 percent in store count between 1963 and 1967, central business districts decreased by 17.1 percent in establishment count and showed only a 4.2 percent increase in sales during this period. The non-SMSA portion of the United States showed a 1.8 percent decrease in establishment count and a 19.1 percent gain in sales.

During this same period, SMSA's showed a 5.5 percent increase in establishment count and a 30.7 percent gain in sales. Some of this shift is attributable to the formation of new SMSA's, but even the larger established metropolitan areas, those containing a city of 100,000 or more population, showed a 2.7 percent increase in establishment count and a 27.9 percent increase in sales.

The fastest growing areas within the SMSA's were the large shopping complexes—those grossing over $50 million a year in retail sales. There were almost twice as many of these complexes in 1967 as in 1963. The number of establishments in such areas increased by almost 42 percent and sales volume more than doubled. Small MRC's—those with sales of less than $10,000,000—including those in the older areas within the city limits, showed even less of an increase than the central business districts although their number remained almost the same.

In 1967, 60.7 percent of all retail sales and 50.5 percent of all retail establishments were concentrated in SMSA's having a defined Central Business District; 10.5 percent of all retail sales and 10.0 percent of all retail establishments were in SMSA's containing a city of less than 100,000 inhabitants; the balance, or 28.8 percent of the sales and 39.5 percent of the retail establishments, were located in non-SMSA areas.

Within the 118 SMSA's containing a defined CBD, 30.7 percent of the U.S. sales were accounted for by the central cities and 30.0 percent were done outside the boundaries of the central cities in 1967. In 1963, in these same SMSA's, 31.9 percent of the U.S. sales were done in the central cities and 28.4 percent were done outside the central city boundaries. This loss of central city sales to the suburbs was characterized by a direct loss from the central business district. In 1963, 24.0 percent of the U.S. sales were done in the cities, but outside of the CBD's; while in 1967 sales in such areas accounted for 24.2 percent of the U.S. figure. The central business districts in these areas, meanwhile, decreased their concentration from 7.9 percent in 1963 to 6.5 percent of total U.S. sales in 1967.

Areas of greatest growth were major retail centers of $25 million total sales or more, which increased their percentage of U.S. sales from 5.2 percent to 7.4 percent. See table I.

SALES SIZE (Tables in Chapter 2)

In 1967 there were 1,670,570 retail establishments which operated the entire year, with total sales of $299,429,825. While the average sales for full-year retail establishments amounted to $179,000, 67.8 percent of these establishments had annual sales of less than $100,000, and only 15 percent had annual sales of $250,000 or more. About 3 percent of the establishments had sales of $1 million or more. This 3 percent did more than 44 percent of the retail business in the United States. More than 48 percent of the retail establishments which operated the entire year had sales of less than $50,000 each, and their aggregate sales were 5.6 percent of the total sales of such establishments.

The 4,406 retail establishments with sales above $5 million accounted for 14.7 percent, or $43.9 billion of the $299.4 billion, in sales of all full-year retail businesses during 1967. In 1963, such establishments accounted for 11.6 percent of the sales of establishments which operated the entire year; 8.2 percent in 1958; and 7.8 percent in 1954.

The $1 million and above size class, which accounted for over 44 percent of the 1967 total retail sales, with $132.8 billion, was heavily dominated by three kinds of business: "Department stores" with $31.2 billion; "Grocery stores" with $38.5 billion; and "Franchised automobile dealers" with $36.4 billion. Establishments in these three kinds of business accounted for 79.8 percent of the total sales of all million dollar establishments.

Sales volume of retail establishments with annual sales of $2 million or more grew at a rate more than twice that of all retail establishments between 1963 and 1967. The increase in sales for all full-year establishments was 29 percent, and the increase in sales of the "2 million dollar-or-more" establishments was almost 60 percent.

EMPLOYMENT SIZE (Tables in Chapter 3)

There were 1,763,000 retail establishments with 9,381,000 paid employees in 1967. More than one-third of all retail establishments had no employees for the workweek which included March 12, 1967; however, such establishments accounted for less than 7 percent of the total sales of all retail establishments during the year. There were 572,000 retail firms at the end of 1967 which had no paid employees at any time during the year. These firms accounted for 4.8 percent of total retail sales.

The "employment size" data for retail establishment in this census is based on the number of paid employees for the workweek including March 12, 1967. Therefore, the "no paid employees" size class includes some establishments operated on a seasonal basis which were not active during the March 12 pay period, and establishments which had no paid employees during the March 12 pay period, but which may have had some during other parts of the year. The annual payroll of $798.8 million shown for the "no paid employees" size class, therefore, represents the payroll of such establishments for pay periods other than the one including March 12.

In contrast to the large number of retail stores with no paid employees, there were only 6,087 establishments which reported having 100 or more paid employees. These stores, while representing only 0.2 of one percent of all retail stores, accounted for nearly 14 percent of total retail sales, and almost 17 percent of the employees. "Department stores" led in number of establishments which had 100 employees or more, with 2,950 establishments, followed by "Eating places" with 828 establishments; "Motor vehicle dealers" with 643 establishments; "Grocery stores" with 432 establishments; and "Variety stores" with 246 establishments.

Establishments in these five kinds of business accounted for more than 80 percent of the employees of all "100-or-more-employee" establishments.

Retail establishments with less than 4 paid employees accounted for 21.7 percent of total sales in 1967, down from 28.2

percent in 1958. Those establishments with less than 20 paid employees accounted for 53.5 percent of total sales in 1967 and 63.2 percent in 1958. Sales of establishments with 100 or more paid employees rose from 10.3 percent of the total in 1958 to 13.7 percent in 1967.

A steady rise in the number of paid employees per retail establishment is noted during the period 1948 through 1967. The average number of employees per retail place of business rose steadily from 3.9 in 1948, to 5.3 in 1967. In 1967, 74 percent of all establishments had 5 or fewer employees, but these establishments accounted for less than 25 percent of all sales. The average annual payroll for retail employees in 1967 was $3,856. This ranged from a high of $6,246 in Alaska and $4,736 in California to a low of $3,207 in Arkansas. Care should be taken in drawing conclusions from these averages since the count of employees includes both full and part-time employees; the payroll also includes both types of employees.

Among the States, payroll expressed as a percent of sales in 1967 ranged from a high of 13.8 percent in Alaska to a low of 9.2 percent in Arkansas; the median was 11.3 percent. The average number of employees (both full and part-time) employed by retailers ranges from a high of 7.9 in Hawaii to a low of 3.4 in Arkansas.

SINGLE UNITS—MULTIUNITS (Tables in Chapter 4)

In 1967 there were 1,577,302 retail firms operating 1,763,324 retail establishments. Almost 98 percent of all retail firms operated only one establishment(single units), but these firms accounted for only 60.2 percent of the sales of all retail firms during the year.

Multiestablishment firms accounted for 39.8 percent of all retail sales in 1967. They accounted for 94.4 percent of all "Department store" sales, 83.2 percent of "Variety stores" sales, and 61.1 percent of "Grocery store" sales. In contrast, they accounted for only 2.5 percent of the sales of "Drinking places," 6.0 percent of the sales of "Used car dealers," and 6.2 percent of the sales of "Fruit stores and vegetable markets."

The average sales size of a multiunit establishment was $561,053 compared to $175,926 for all retail stores. Almost 57 percent of the sales of multiunits were made through "Grocery stores" and "Department stores."

Of the total of 34,120 retail multiunit firms, 26,632 operated only two or three establishments. The total number of establishments operated by such firms was 58,764, or 3.3 percent of the total number of retail establishments; they accounted for 5.8 percent of total sales. On the other hand, there were only 204 firms in the "101-or-more-establishments" size class. These firms operated 82,200 establishments. With only 4.7 percent of all retail establishments, they accounted for 18.6 percent of total retail sales during 1967. This is up from 1958 when the "101-or-more-establishment" size class accounted for 2.8 percent of the establishments and 14.3 percent of the sales.

In 1967, the "101-or-more-establishment" size class was heavily dominated by six kinds of business: (1) "Grocery stores" had 19,655 establishments operated by 39 firms; (2) "Gasoline service stations" had 9,776 establishments operated by 24 firms; (3) "Variety stores" had 7,319 establishments operated by 19 firms; (4) "Eating places" and 5,933 establishments operated by 26 firms; (5) "Shoe stores" had 5,781 establishments operated by 16 firms; and (6) "Tire, battery, and accessory dealers" had 4,065 establishments operated by 18 firms. Firms in these six kinds of business accounted for almost 64 percent of all establishments and 56.4 percent of total sales of all 101-or-more-establishment multiunits.

With respect to the sales volume of firms with 101 retail establishments or more, "Grocery stores" led the list with $23.5 billion in sales for 39 firms; "Department stores" followed with $14.7 billion in sales for 20 firms; and "Variety stores" had $3.9 billion in sales for 19 firms. Firms in these three kinds of business accounted for 36 percent of all establishments and almost 73 percent of total sales of all 101 or more establishment multiunits. "Grocery stores" alone accounted for 40.7 percent of sales in the "101 or more establishments" size class, and "Department stores" contributed another 25.5 percent. About 46 percent of all "Department stores" sales were accounted for by firms in the "101 or more establishment" size class, while 36 percent of "Grocery stores" sales come from this size class.

MERCHANDISE LINE SALES

Retail sales, in terms of lines of merchandise sold, showed significant changes in consumer expenditure patterns between 1963 and 1967. Information concerning these shifts is published separately in the Merchandise Line Sales reports (series BC67-MLS) for the United States, States, SMSA's and the non-SMSA area within each State.

The overall increase in retail sales of employer cases, which constitute all but a small proportion of retail sales, was 26.7 percent. Merchandise lines which showed considerably less than average increases included: "Alcoholic drinks"; "Cigars-cigarettes-tobacco"; "Lumber-building materials"; "Automobiles-trucks"; and "Household fuels-ice," which registered the smallest increase (+2.7 percent). Considerably larger than average increases were registered for: "Meals-snacks"; "Jewelry-optical goods"; "Sporting-recreational equipment"; "Nonmerchandise receipts" (which includes a wide range of miscellaneous services); and "Major appliances-radio-TV-musical instruments," which registered the largest increase (49.0 percent). (See table R.)

The merchandise line series of reports provides the marketing analyst the ability to trace changes in the distribution of types of products sold to the consumer; illustrates how important particular groups of products are within various kinds of businesses; and can be used to measure changes in the share of the market held by businesses which consider the product as a secondary line compared to the share sold by businesses considering the product as their primary line. The following discussion of the "Major appliances-radio-TV-musical instruments" line illustrates these uses.

Table S shows the major kinds of stores which sold the "Major appliances-radio TV-musical instruments" merchandise line, their relative position in this market, and their percentage increase in sales of these products from 1963 to 1967. The largest increase (96.8 percent) was among "radio and TV stores." "Department stores" however, also enjoyed a large increase in sales of these products (72.6 percent), and increased their share of the market from 22.5 percent in 1963 to 26.0 percent in 1967.

Household appliance dealers showed a less than average increase in sales (33.4 percent), and their share of the market dropped from 24.8 percent to 22.1 percent.

It is also possible to determine shifts of "detail merchandise lines" within the broad merchandise lines. "Detail merchandise line" data are requested only of kinds of business which normally carry the detail lines in some quantity, as opposed to the "broad lines" data which are requested from establishments in every kind of business, regardless of the amount carried. It is possible, therefore, to determine what portion of the increase in sales of the broad merchandise line, "Major appliances-radio-TV-musical instruments" is due to increased "Major household appliance" sales and what portion is due to increased sales of "Radios, TV, musical instruments" for "Department stores," for "Household appliance stores," and for "Radio and TV stores."

Table T indicates that the 72.6 percent increase in sales in 1967 of the broad line for "Department stores is primarily due to the 92.6 percent increase in sales of "Radio-TV-musical instruments." Most of the sales of "New radios-TV's" were made by "Radio and TV stores," which increased such sales by 96.3 percent between 1963 and 1967. A lesser amount of the increase in sales of the broad line was due to the increased sales of "Major household appliances." Department stores showed a 60.0 percent increase in this detail line, while "Household appliance" stores, which accounted for a major portion of the sales of "New major appliances," registered a 40.3 percent increase in sales of this line.
